GOLDDIGGER

PRESENTED By

DEDICATION

We, the graduating class of 1951, dedicate this book to YOUTH. Especially to those who have sacrificed their lives that ours might remain free, and to all youth of the Atomic Age who accept the challenge of the perils of the future and unite under the banner of Christianity to move forward with trust and confidence, we respectfully dedicate this 1951 edition of the Golddigger.

Dear Seniors of 1951

Nothing just happens. Be for something! It isn't the motto that hangs on the wall but the motto you live that counts. Have faith; have faith in your God; have faith in your country; have faith in yourself. You can make a better world. Dedicate yourself to the task.

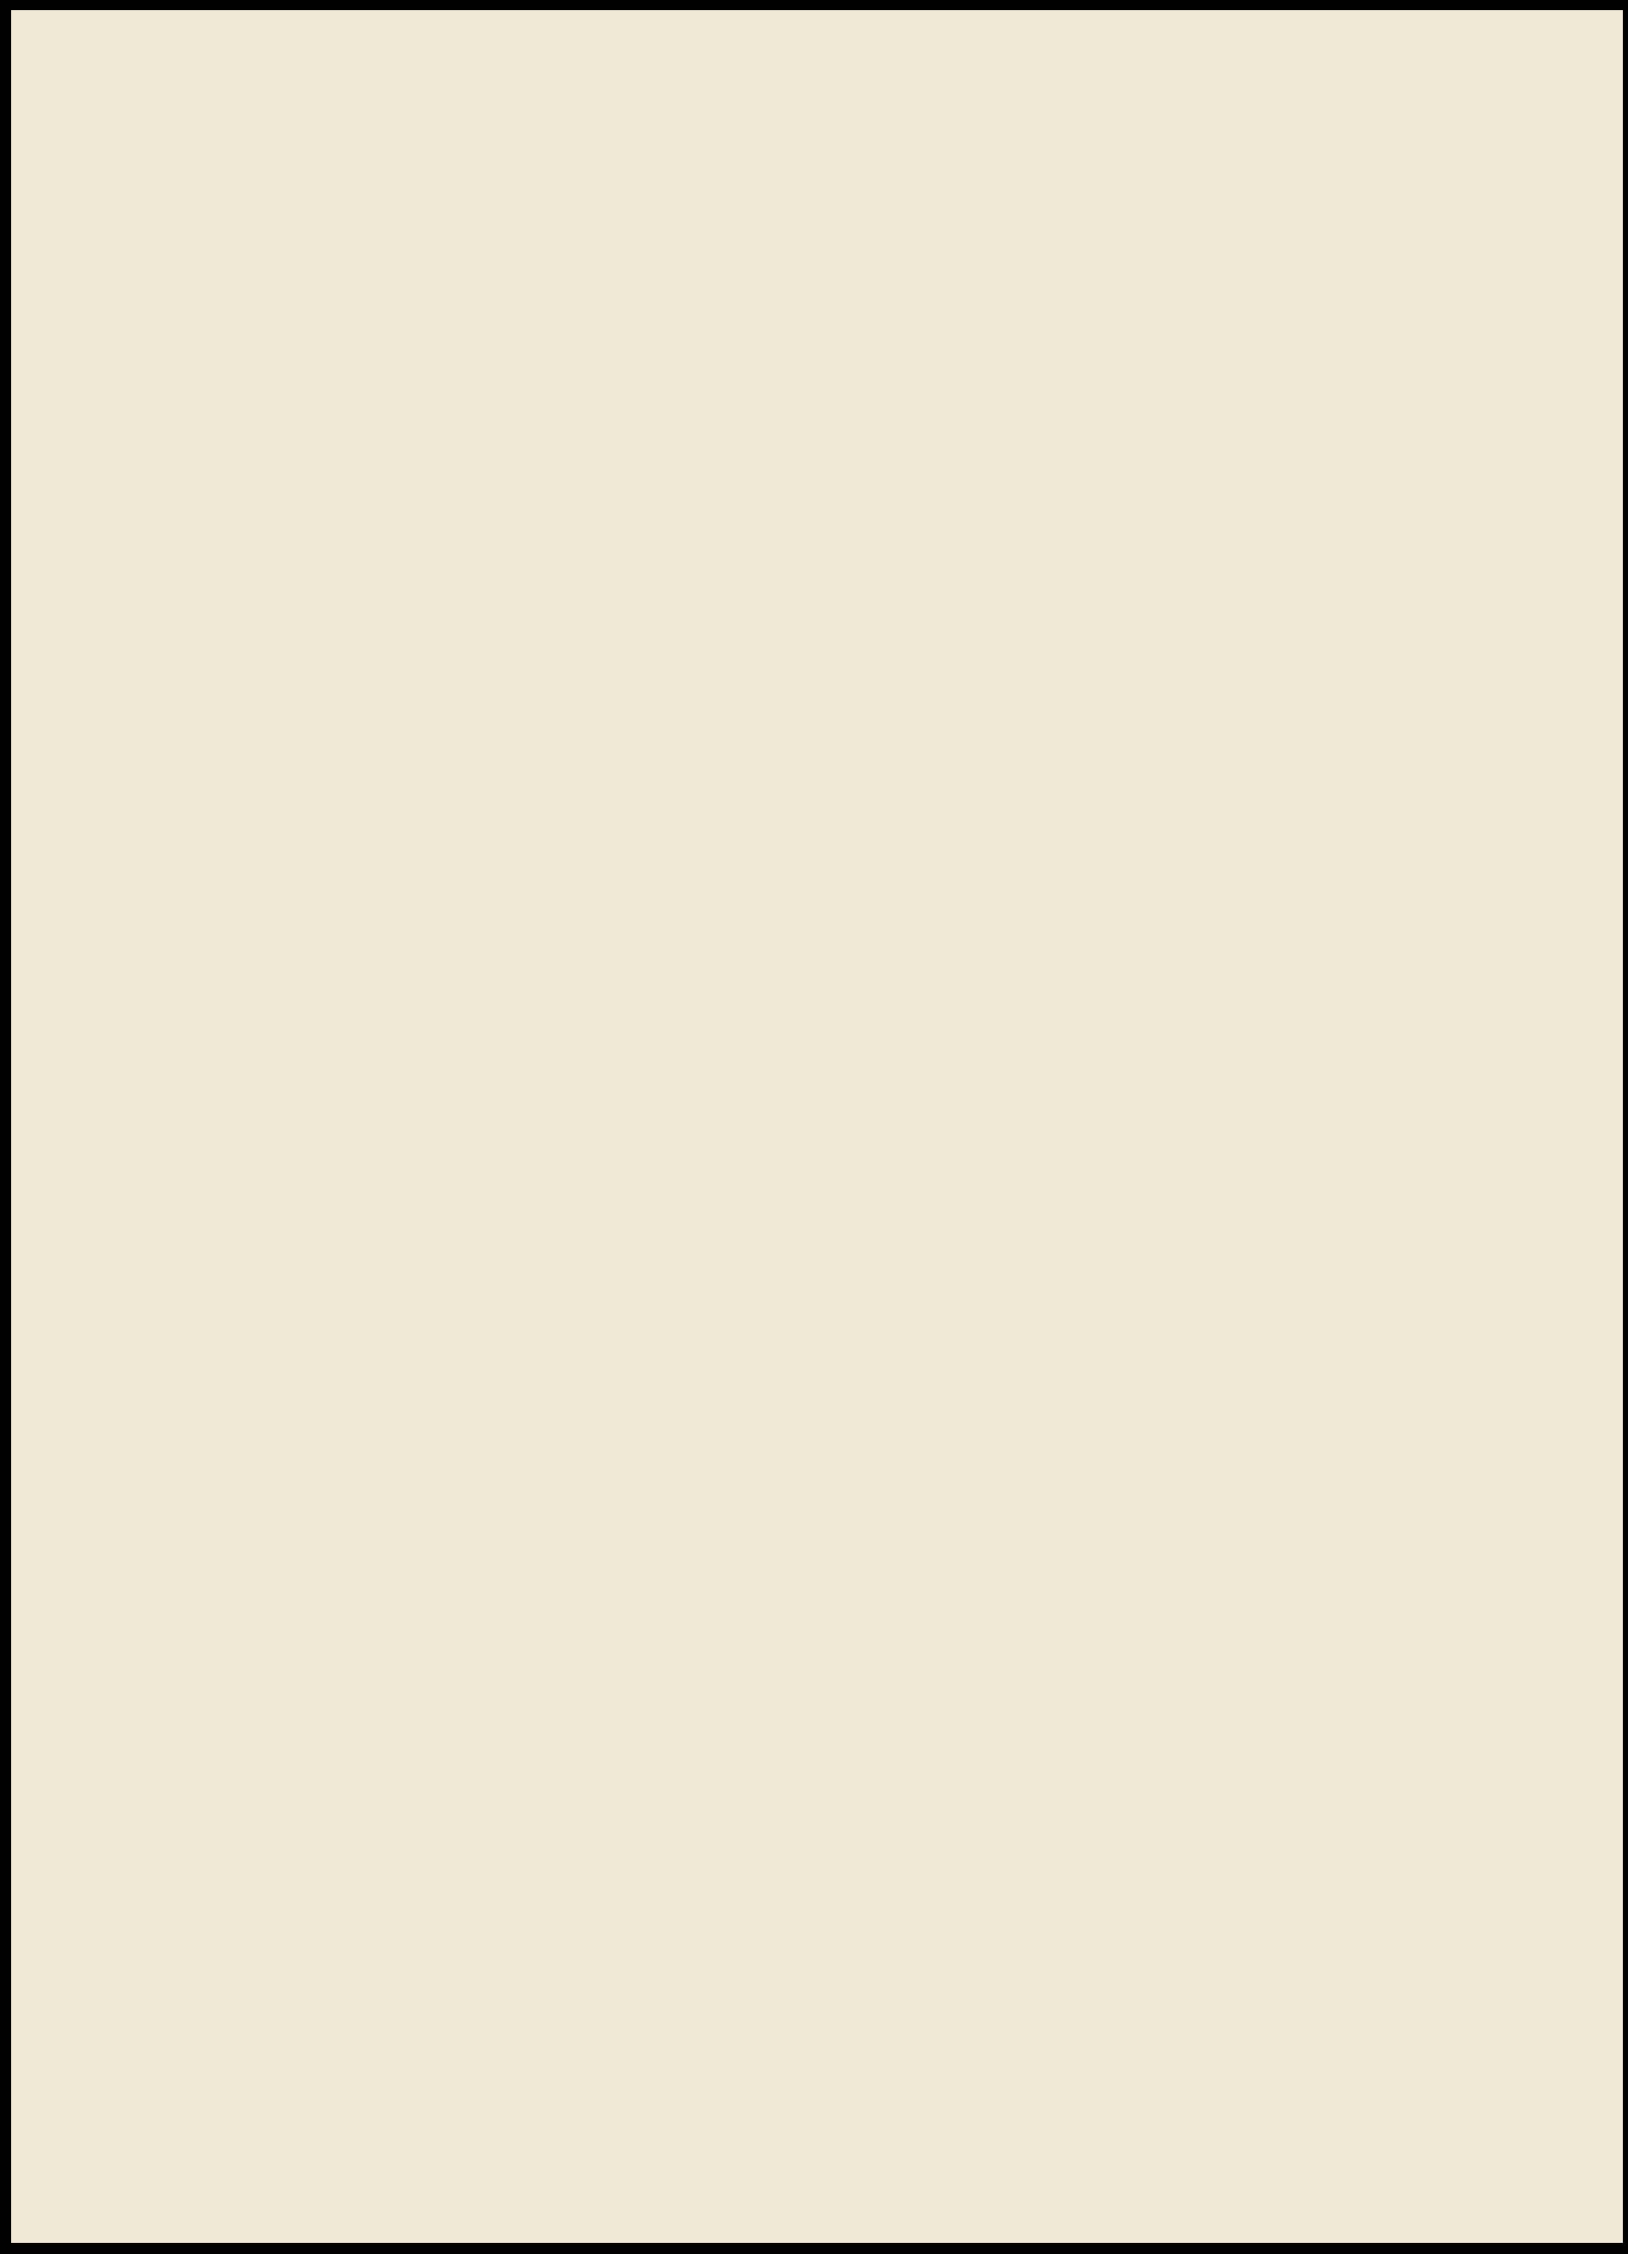

As ever, your friend,

G. L. Kellenbenz

History

In the fall of 1939, Idaho Springs opened the doors of its education factory to begin production of a pupil atomic pile. The board and teachers little realized the difficulties that they would encounter in such an undertaking. Upon introduction of the magnetic force, Miss Marguerite Lackner, the twelve year process was begun. To begin with there were 59 active young elements in the betatron, but down through the years some of them were blasted out by constant bombardment of protons of education and were widely scattered. Nine original elements survived all the educational bombardments to become finished products along with other atoms that were added through the years. The nine original atoms were Marilyn Hackethal, Edna Belle McCormick, Joyce Wagner, Doris Gore, Erich Eggers, Glen Fleming, Bill Jones, Raymond Nowak, and Emmet O'Donnell.

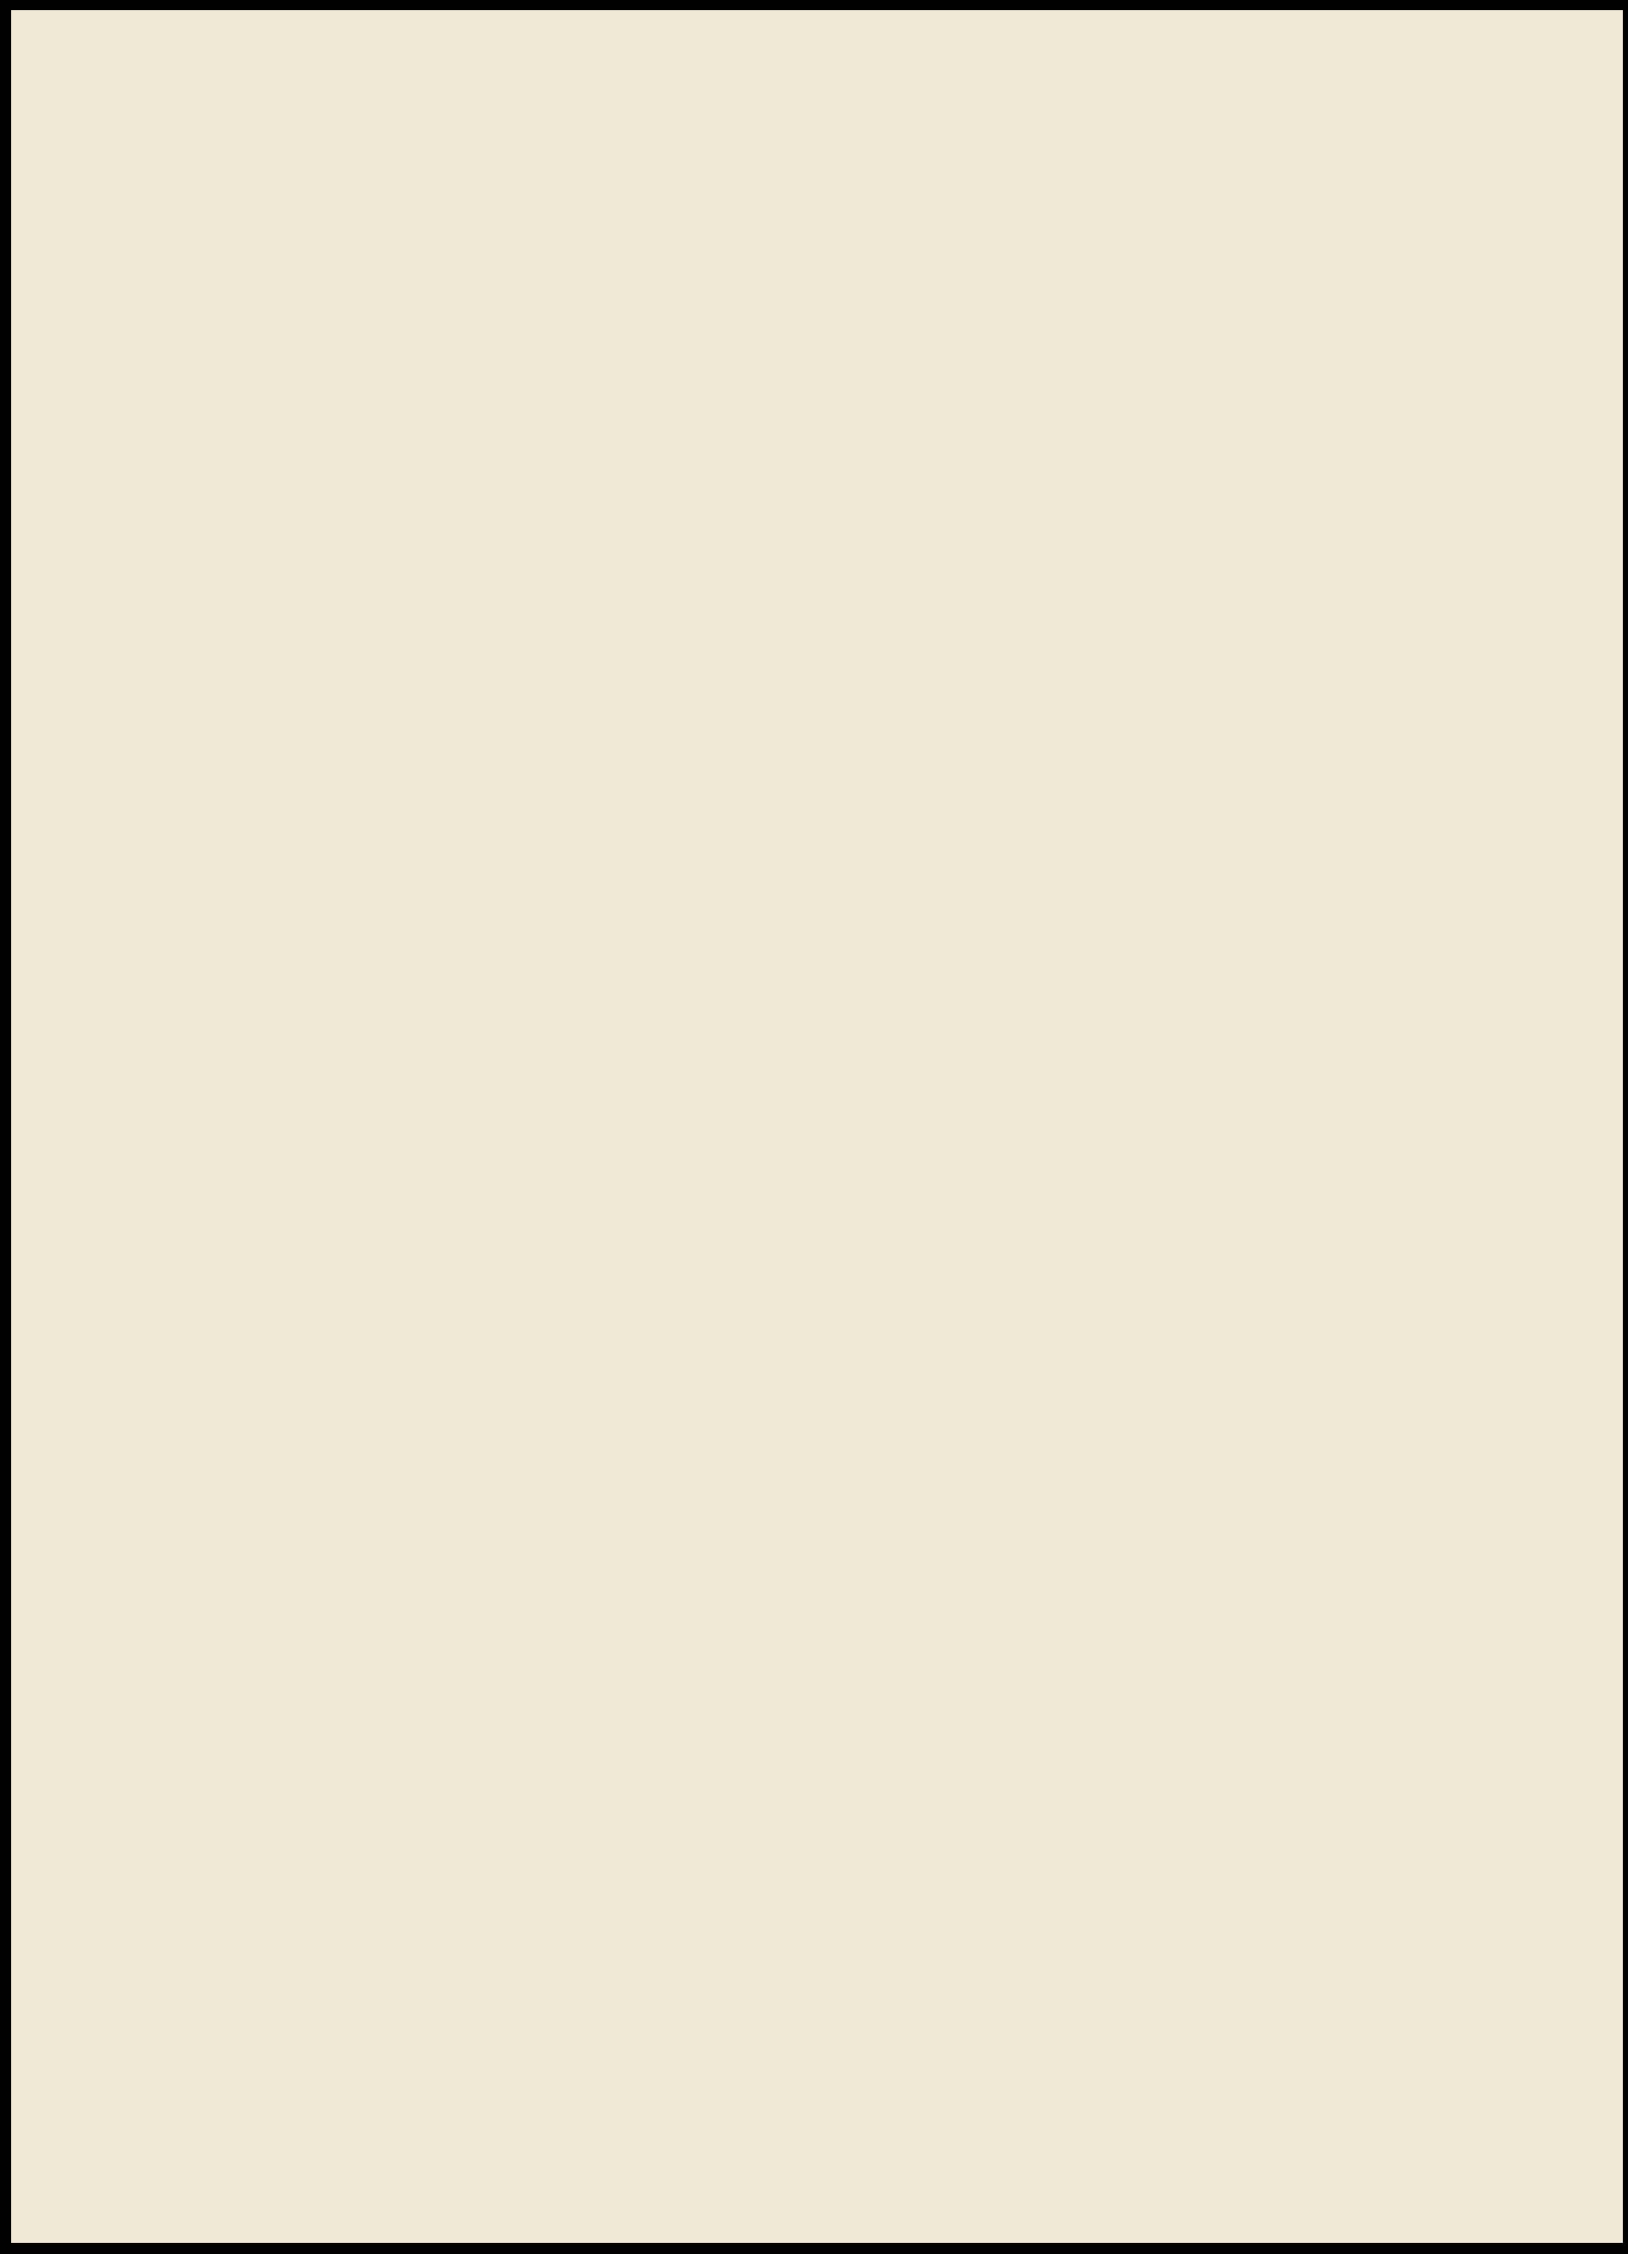

The second year began with a new magnetic force, Miss Margaret Carlson, whirling us through the second betatron. The atoms of Bobby Eisner and Frank Rice were brought in from Denver and Boulder to be blasted by protons of the three R's along with the rest of us.

We were then transferred to betatron three where we took extremely rough treatment by the force of protons of multiplication and division. Miss Pearl Ford was the force that kept us going through such a nucleus splitting process.

Through the fourth year Miss Vivian Tippet was the propelling force which helped us through the bombardments of geography, spelling and more advanced stages of arithmetic. The atoms of Georgialy Foster, from Reddings, California, and La Keta Shreve, from Eaton, Colorado, were added at this point to increase our stock pile. We lost Glen Fleming that year but he was attracted back two years later.

Our propelling force during our stay in the fifth betatron was Miss Marianne Lamberty. The proton of history gave us the worst beating yet to be experienced in our production. The isotope atom of Arlan Michaelis was hurled into our growing atomic pile from Estes Park, Colorado, as we were increasingly projected.

Miss Lydia Gross pulled us through the beating during the sixth betatron, and knocked off some of the frictional points that tended to slow us down. That was our last experience in the old machine, for the next year we were placed in front of the speeding educational protons and neutrons of the new cyclotron in the High School Plant.

History

All of us atoms were very active in the new machine at first, but after a few days in the new and more powerful betatron, we began to slow down. Barbara Richardson from Pine, Colorado; Dean White, from Imogene, Iowa; and Jim Nunn from Hapeville, Georgia, were added. Miss Joyce Tatal was the magnetic force which pulled us through the hammering blows of the first year of our more advanced education. Miss Louise Scheerer added her weight in the second year to guide us through the big whirl of the eighth cyclotron.

After two years in these betatrons, we entered a new and more powerful one in the High School plant. At that time we added four new atoms: Nelson Bakken, from Empire; Nancee Hull, from Lincoln, Nebraska; Bert Cross was drawn back into the I. S.H.S. betatron, from Central City; Audrey Moore and Donna Osborn, from Dumont. We added a new and very powerful magnetic force, Mr. Verner Rowland, to guide us through the next four years of time.

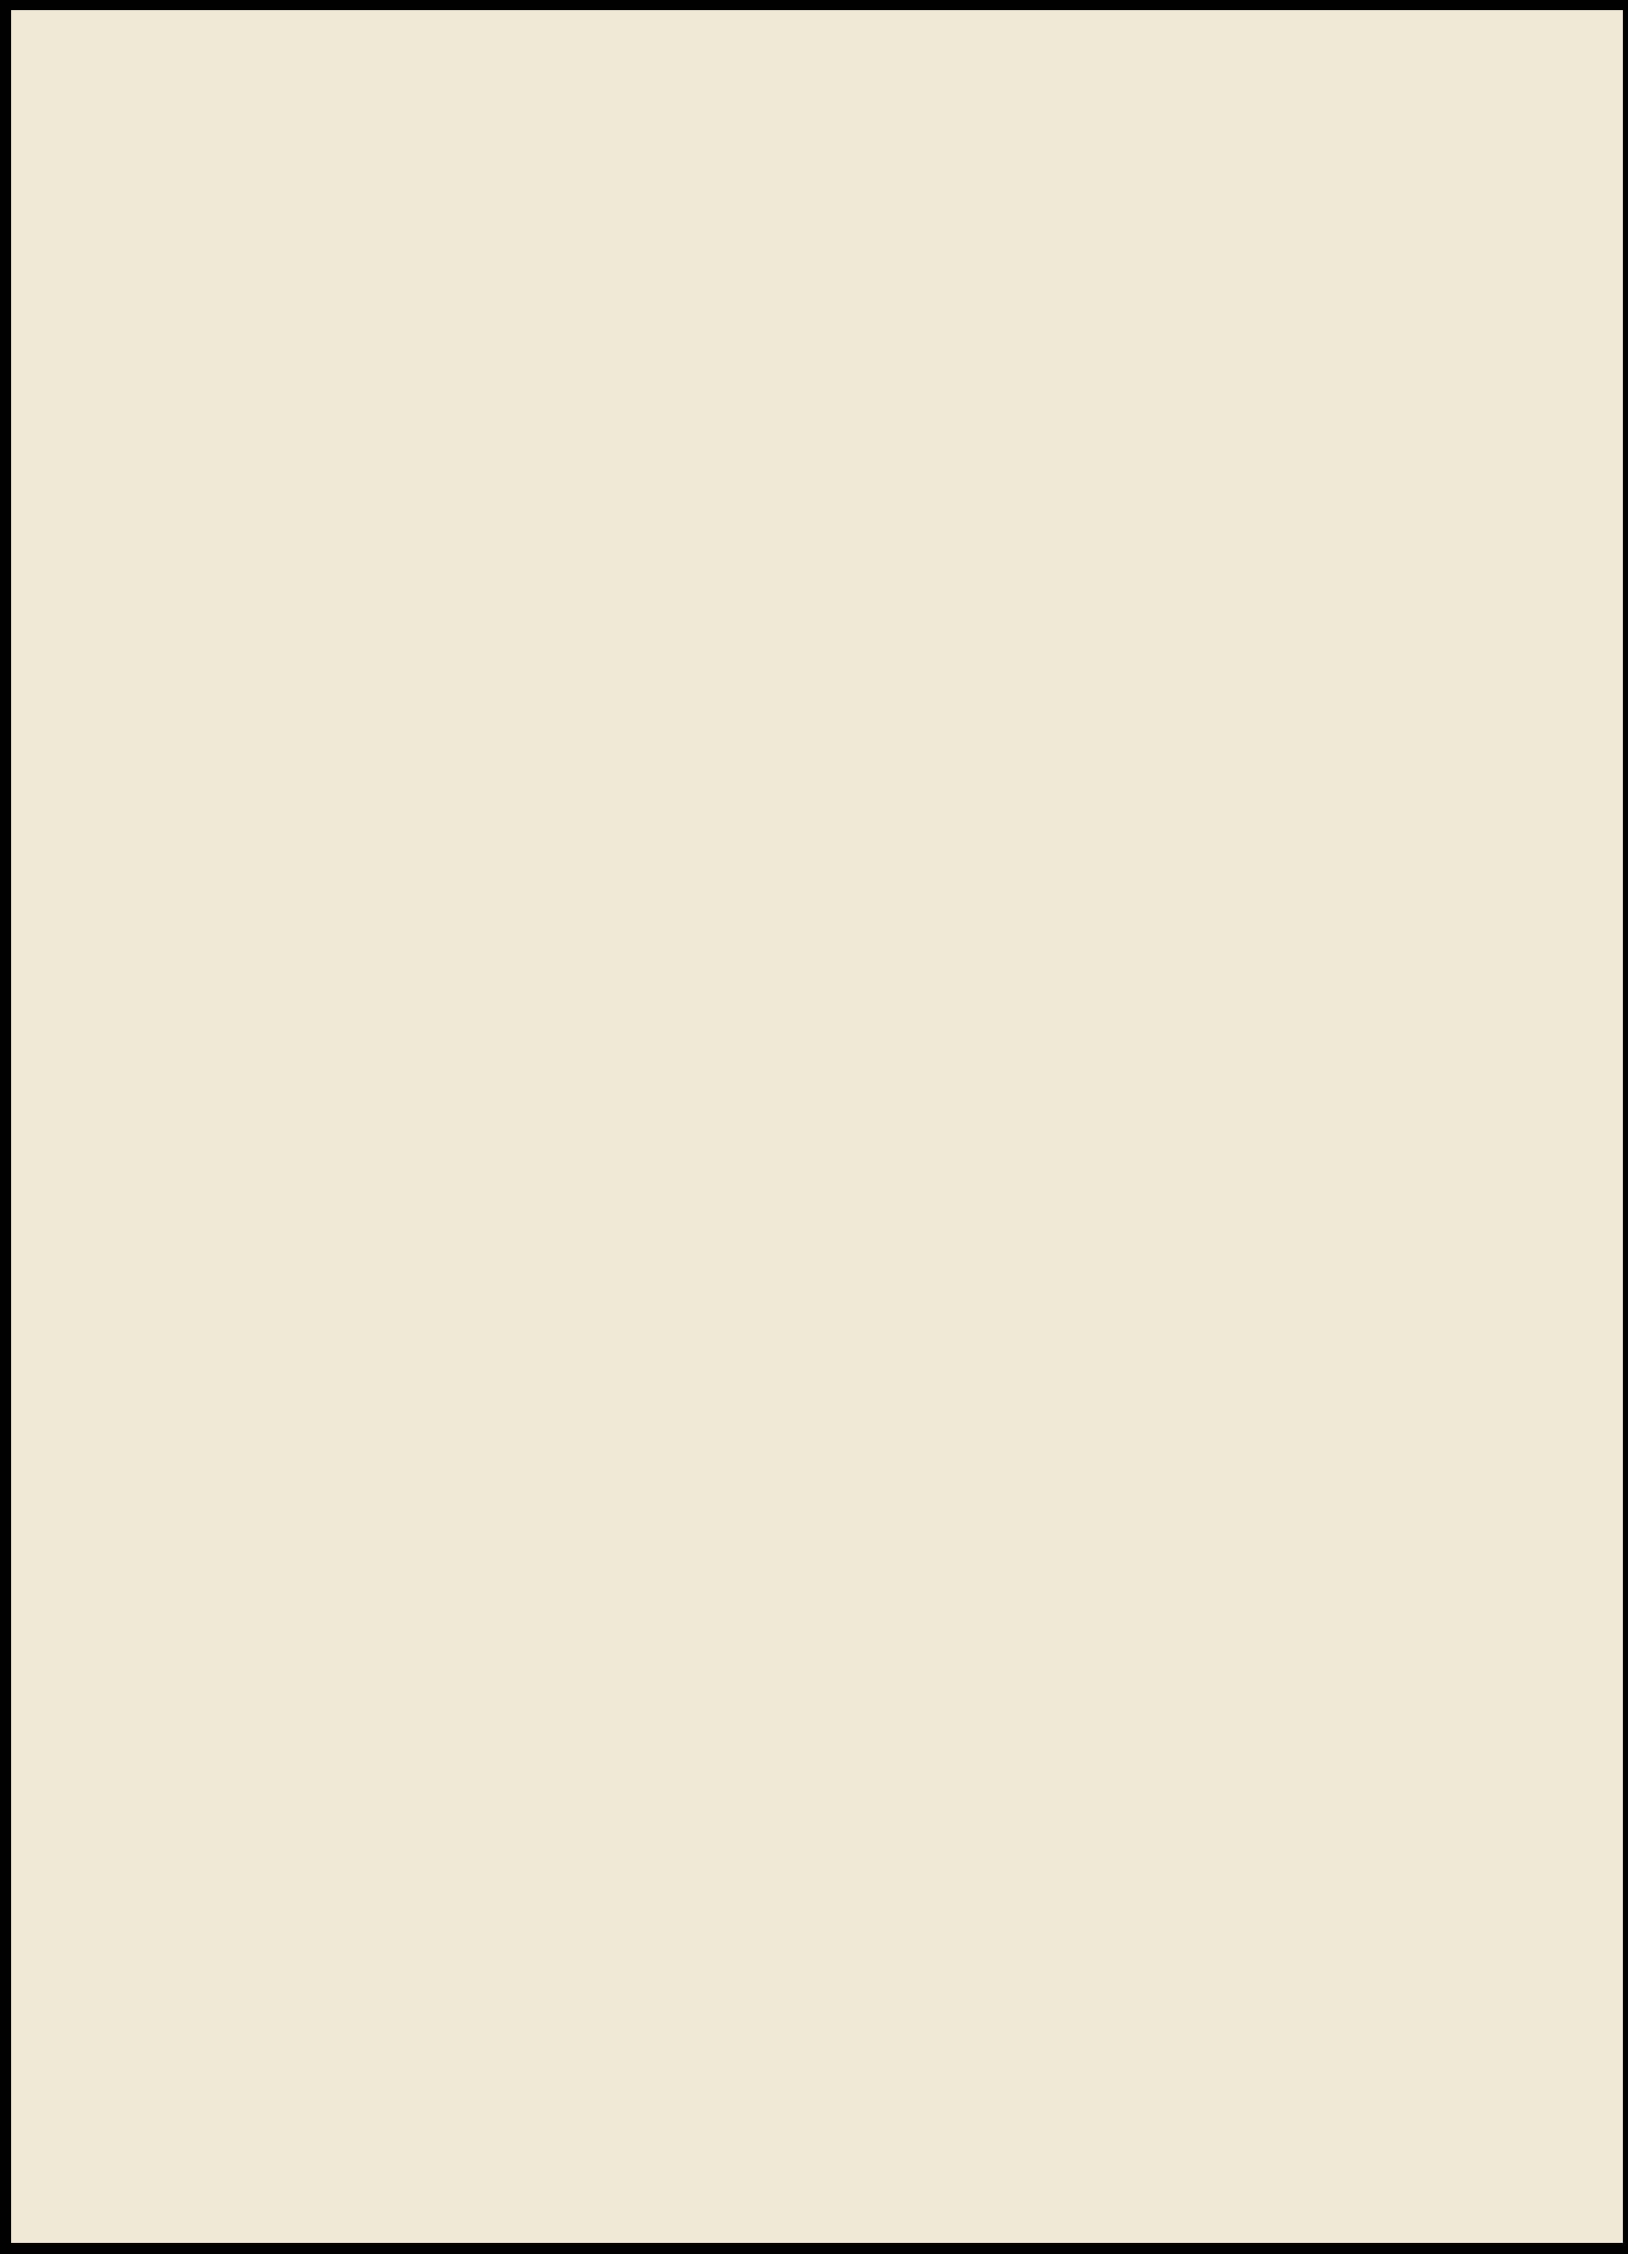

Because of this new magnatron, we won float contests for the next two years and put on a bang-up return party.

We were enlarged in the tenth year by the addition of three new elements, Jim Fox, from Denver; Melvin Johnson, from Elyria, Ohio; and Elaine Mullenax, from Cheraw, Colorado. Our Christmas party was the successfully conducted explosion of magnificence that year.

During our eleven years of bombardment, our speed had increased until we had such very powerful and enduring atoms that one of our former atoms, lost in the sixth grade, was attracted back to our betatron from Tuscon, Arizona. This was Emmet O'Donnell. Our next great release of energy was the junior play, "We Shook The Family Tree," which left the town completely void of expression. On May 12, 1950 our surplus energy promoted the finest of Junior-Senior Proms.

We started the final stretch with the addition of only one new element, Ray Toomer, who came from Canon City, Colorado. Now, with twelve years of attraction and propulsion completed, this fused mass of atoms, compounded into terrific force, is prepared to leave the magnatron and to be hurled into the seething stream of life.

Look out world, here we come!

WILL

(Atomic Combustion)

The members of this class, collectively assembled in the fifth year of the atomic age, declare obsolete all documents formerly made by us in our high school career. We have gathered together for dispersal our scientific tools and chemicals along with a few spare protons and electrons of knowledge and atoms of culture. Immediately after our graduation we request that the terms of this document be duly administered with all due pomp and ceremony required of lower classmen to seniors,

The senior class bequeaths to the junior class its dignity and poise, as well as its place in the hearts of the teachers,

To the sophomores, the senior class leaves the prowess and athletic ability of the boys and the school spirit exhibited by its girls that the sophomore class may bring the school even greater honors and more trophies,

The senior class bequeaths to the freshmen all of its cleverly acquired keys to tests and texts to aid them in the struggle toward graduation,

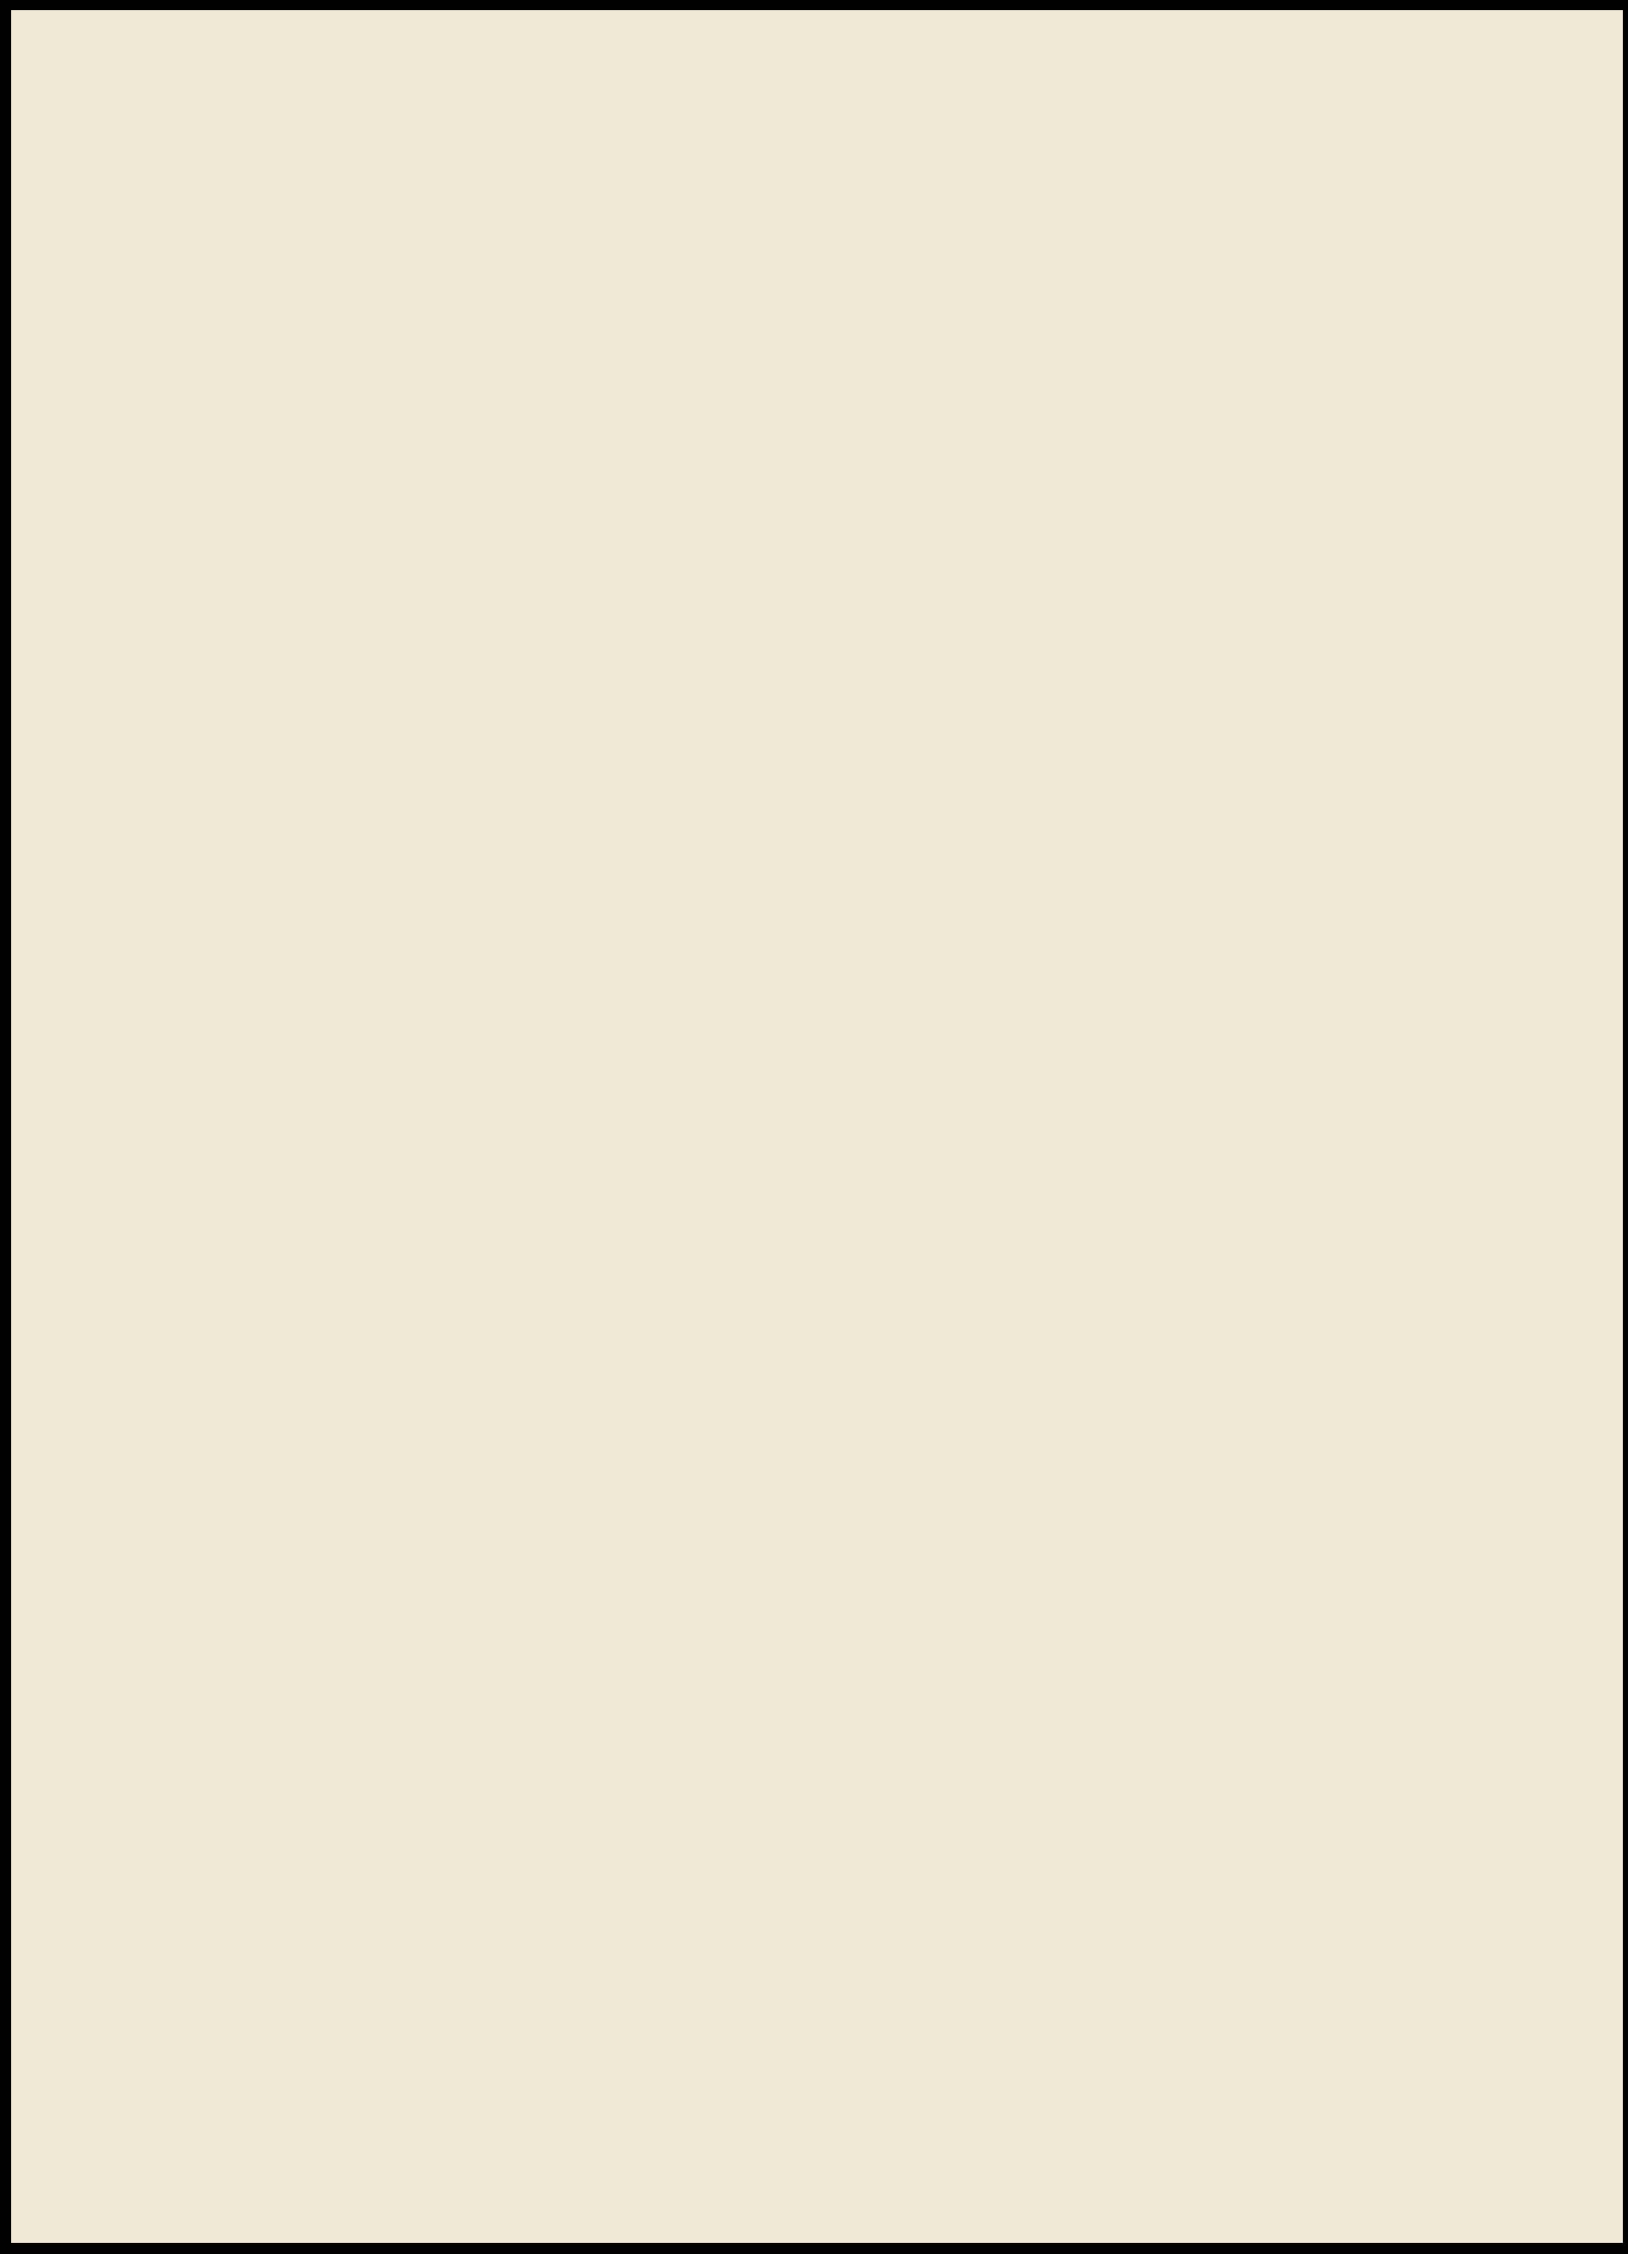

To the seventh and eighth grades the graduating class gives its angelic ways, including its unfailing attention, its faultless etiquette, its magnificent ambition and its spectacular success as a senior class,

With nostalgic regret, the senior class relinquishes to the next seventh grade our sponsor, Mr. Rowland. If you follow his guidance you will achieve the success of this famous senior class who is graduating in the midst of the Atomic era--the class of 1951--no less,

To the teachers, we leave the heavenly calm in the halls which will follow our departure and the memory of a perfect model after which to fashion future senior classes,

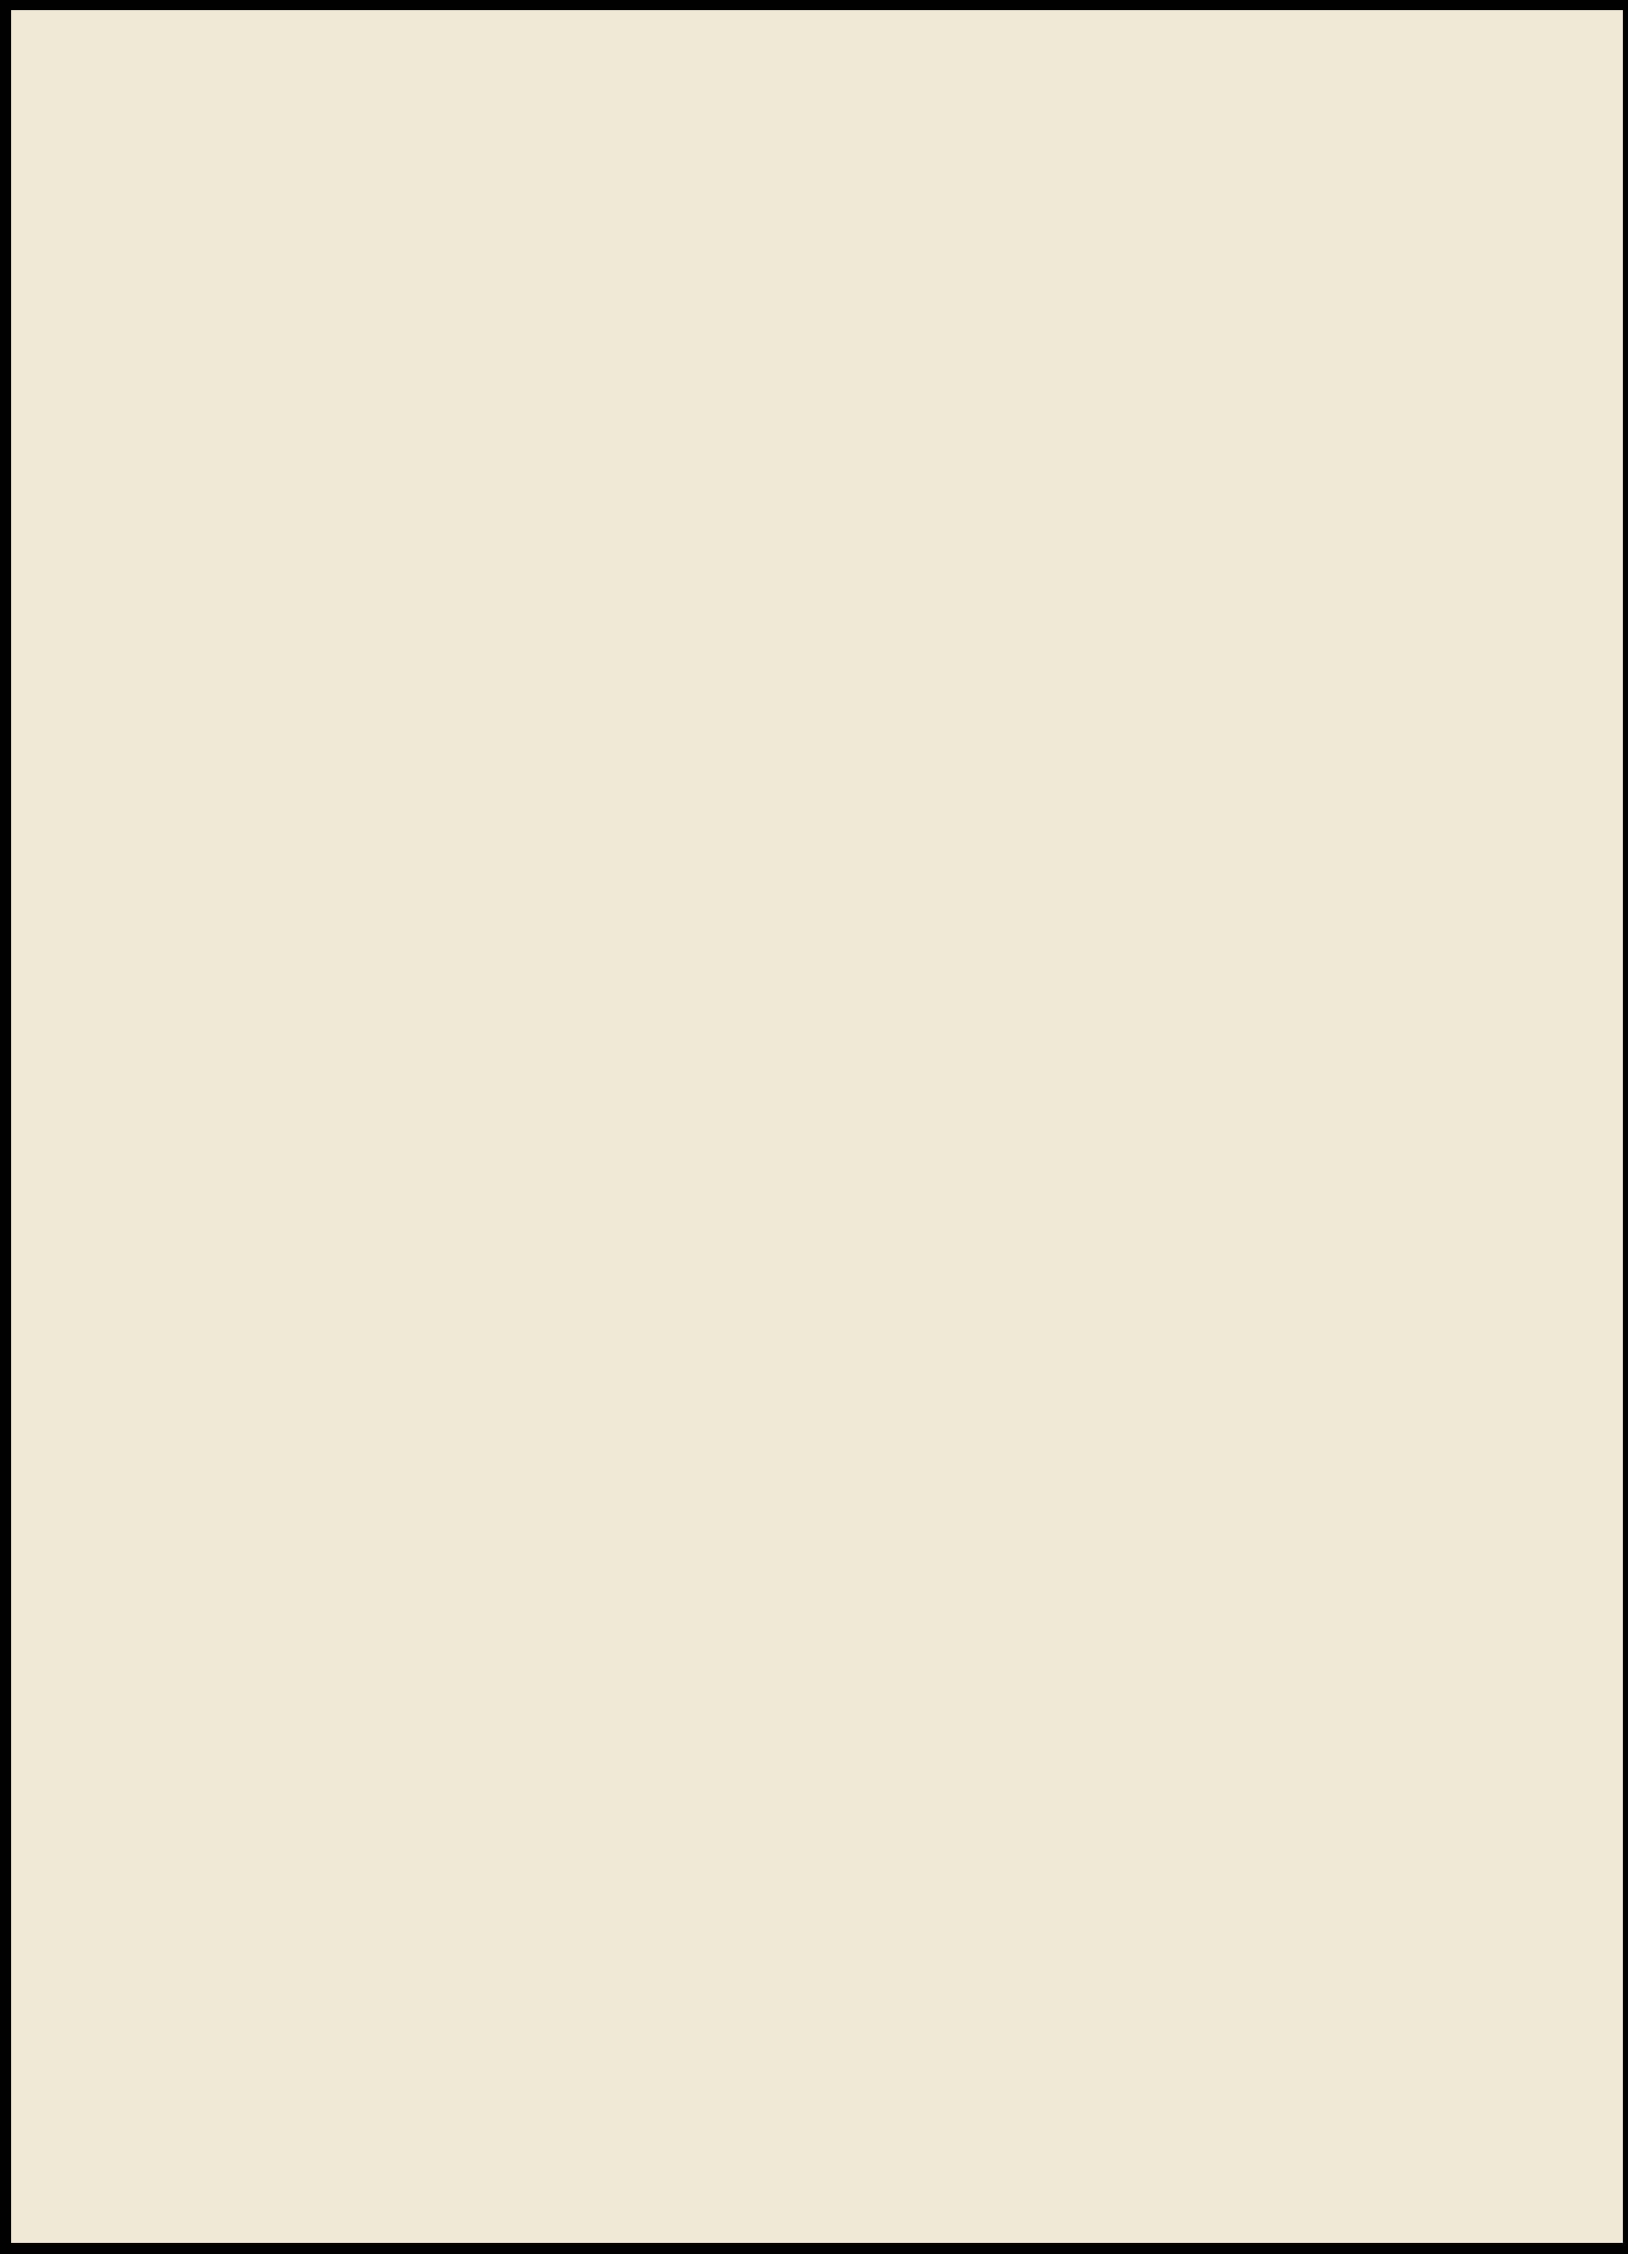

Signed, sealed, and published in the interest of the aspirations and the inspirations of future humanity.
